THIS IS UNEVALUATED INFORMATION

25X1 1. During the month of April 1950, the Rumanian Government, through Romanoexport, offered for sale in Western Europe certain jewelry which had been confiscated from private persons in Rumania. The jewelry is at present in the vaults of 25X1 the National Bank in Bucharest and is inventoried under the title "Released to the Ministry of Foreign Trade." It is believed that in addition to those 25X1 already offered for sale, there are many more articles including precious stones, which the Rumanian Government will sell providing the proper price is offered.

2. The Rumanian authorities, in order to facilitate the entry of prospective buyers into Rumania, and the carrying of jewelry from the country, have proposed the following plans:

a. To provide a military escort from Bucharest to the Rumanian border for the buyers and/or for the shipment of jewels, and to arrange with the Hungarian authorities to have the latter do the same;

25X1 b. To accord landing and diplomatic privileges to [] airplane (and to arrange for the same privileges with other Satellite countries) to be chartered by the buyers to fly from Zurich to Bucharest.

3. The Rumanian authorities have tentatively placed an evaluation of $700,000 on the lot of jewelry currently being offered, but in order that it may be more easily sold, have officially quoted values ranging from $500,000 to $700,000. The Rumanian Government will not allow the jewels to leave Rumania until payment has been received.

4. The following is a breakdown of the collection now being offered for sale:

a. Lot No. 1, representing about 65 percent of the total stock value, contains bracelets, ear-jewelry (rings, boutons, pendants, et cetera), rings, broaches, clips (blouse or lapel ornaments), colliers, diadems, and pearls. In general, it is a collection of fine artistic work, including brilliants, diamonds, rubies, sapphires, opyxes, emeralds, and topazes. The larger brilliants range in size from four to twelve carats. It contains:

1) Over 50 percent of single pieces evaluated at approximately from $5,000 to $10,000 each.

- 2) About 15 percent of the pieces evaluated at between $2,000 and $5,000 each.
- 3) About 13 percent of the pieces evaluated at between $1,000 and $2,000 each.
- 4) About 6 percent of the pieces evaluated at between $700 and $1,000 each.

The balance (about 14 percent) are objects of minor value, such as gold and platinum items with small stones and enamel work, consisting of poudriers, cigarette cases, chains, medallions, and bracelets.

- b. Lot No. 2, representing about 23 percent of the total stock value, contains:

- 1) Approximately 10 percent of large pieces with a value of from $7,000 to $10,000 each.
- 2) About 23 percent of the pieces evaluated at from $2,000 to $4,000 each.
- 3) About 20 percent of the pieces evaluated at from $1,000 to $2,000 each.
- 4) About 7 percent of the pieces evaluated at from $800 to $1,000 each.

The balance of 40 percent consists of items valued at under $800 per piece, the majority of which are items of gold and platinum without stones. The general character of this entire lot is substantially different from Lot No. 1, which contains almost no items without stones and is of high workmanship value. This means that Lot No. 2 has a high gold and platinum value as against the stone and workmanship value of Lot No. 1. Aside from this difference the two lots are substantially the same.

- c. Lot No. 3, representing about 12 percent of the total stock in value, consists (with the exception of a few minor items) largely of three pieces, valued substantially at between $15,000 and $50,000, with brilliants of no less than 10 carats each, plus one large rose pearl.
